DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The Torres House c. 1850 is a 2 story single room plan brick house on Old Elk Neck Road just south of Jones Chapel Road. The house faces east with the main gable running north/south.

The 3 bay by 1 room brick structure rests on a full uncoursed fieldstone foundation and is covered with a medium sloped composition tile roof. A much more recent 2 story 2 bay 1 room frame section, covered with asbestos extends to the north of the main block. Attached to it is a single story frame section of modern construction.

The eastern (main) facade is laid in 7 course common bond with a dentiled brick cornice. The entrance is located in the central of three bays with plain surround and modern door. 6/6 sash windows flank the entrance with extended wood lintels and sills. Three 6/6 sash illuminate the second floor and have louvered shutters. The northern frame addition has a shorter elevation but has similar details. Two 6/6 sash with louvered shutters are found on each floor. A shed roof front porch with square posts and a seamed tin roof stretches across the entire front of the house.

The south gable end is a plain brick wall with a small attic light and plain bargeboard.

The west ~~side~~^{side} has similar detailing, however the central entrance has been closed up. A corbelled brick cornice without dentils stretches across at eave level.

The north end is entirely covered with the later frame additions but a small interior brick stack with 2 course cap rises out of the end wall.

The interior has been extensively remodeled but winder stairs to both cellar and second floor remain in the north-western corner. First floor joists are still left in the round and are visible in the basement. The stack support has a flat arch with storage shelves below.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The Torres House is a common form for the mid 19th century but uncommon for the relatively isolated Elk Neck Area. Stylish building forms were undoubtedly reaching the Neck but no more than one of two houses are found with similar stylish details. The Torres House is one of a very few brick structures on the Neck and the only one known with a dentiled brick cornice. A small community seems to have developed around Jones Chapel with a small school across the street and a few residences, the Torres House being the most substantial of any surviving today. It appears as if the house was owned by a W. T. Jones in 1877. The 1877 Tas Assessments lists 36 acres and two brick dwellings, one valued at $400 and the other at $300, UNDER JONES'S NAME.
